RILLEY. Laurence. 14:7:1662 to ...?

ROUMIEU. Adam – no master.

SHERWOOD. William. Made free 10:10:1720, master not known.

WHEELER. George – erroneously listed as an apprentice of William Rodborn, blacksmith. This is an error for George Weaver apprenticed to Rodborn Wilson, blacksmith.

*Pettit was "ordered to put his journeyman [Garsine?] away or be sued".

 'Translated' – transferred? to Glovers 5:11:1750.

C = Citizen.

MIM = Mathematical Instrument Maker.

NB. There are several instances when it has not been possible to distinguish between the apprentices of two makers of the same name. Usually this is confusion between father and son. When the company clerks did differentiate, it was with terms such as 'elder' or 'younger' and 'senior' or 'junior'.

All of the trades mentioned are those cited by Atkins. The temptation to supplement information regarding trades has been resisted (so far).

When a maker's company is named it does not necessarily follow that that was the maker's precise trade. Many members of the various facets of the horological trades were members of other companies.
