

The Trustees of the British Museum and the Court of the Worshipful Company of Clockmakers have the pleasure of inviting interested horologists and their guests to attend

The Dingwall-Beloe
Horological Lecture
Heavenly advisors: the astrological purpose of public clocks in Italy

Marisa Addomine

Thursday 22 November 2018

17.30 for the 18.00–19.00 lecture,

followed by a reception

BP Lecture Theatre, British Museum

The Worshipful Company of Clockmakers

This event was founded with funds bequeathed to the British Museum by former Assistant Keeper of Printed Books in the British Library Dr Eric Dingwall, and to the Clockmakers' Company by the noted horological collector Mr Reginald Beloe. It is intended that these annual lectures should make new contributions to our understanding of the history of horology, at an international level.

Free, booking essential

This invitation does not admit britishmuseum.org/dingwall
020 7323 8181

Dingwall-Beloe Lecture
The Horological Study Room
Britain, Europe and Prehistory
British Museum
Great Russell Street
London WC1B 3DG

We will process your personal data, and that of any additional guests you nominate, where it is in our legitimate interests to promote the British Museum through exhibitions and events by inviting you to attend this event and others in the future. You can opt out of receiving invitations at any time by emailing rspv@britishmuseum.org or calling +44 (0)20 7323 8976.

Please see our privacy policy on britishmuseum.org/privacypolicy for more details about how we use your personal data and about your rights, or contact the Museum's Data Protection Officer at info@britishmuseum.org or +44 (0)20 7323 8000.

